

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Unsettled Markets
Noted Last Week

Markets, both for securities and commodities, were unsettled last week. Business, however, showed little sign of retrogression, with carloadings, electric power consumption, automobile production and steel output on the optimistic side. The steel outlook was somewhat stabilized by the announcement by a leading producer that present prices will govern the third quarter deliveries. The forward movement is seen moderating in some lines, such as lumber, coal and textiles. Higher material prices and wages are apparently having an effect on heavy building construction.

Copper was prominent in the unsettled commodity markets. The London view is that in the long run copper and metals will tend upward. Grain and cotton markets reflect the steadily improving prospects for a good domestic crop.

The decline in industrial stocks, despite good corporation earnings reports indicates that the market has discounted to a considerable extent these results. The market also reflected the uncertainty over the labor situation and congressional possibilities.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System announced that industrial production in the first quarter averaged 116 per cent of "normal," the highest average for this period except in 1929.

Some first quarter net earnings reported over the week-end included: United Biscuits $254,149, compared with $297,012, in the first quarter of 1936.

Curtis Publishing $1,513,740, or $1.75 a preferred share.

Loft, Inc., net loss of $143,719, vs. net loss of $397,658.

Walgreen Co. net of $1,260,719 vs. $1,190,739.

United Light & Power $4,508,262 vs. $2,411,651, net ended December 31.

Leading steel makers see no general slackening in demand. Operations in the Pittsburgh district this week are scheduled at 94 per cent of capacity.

Jones & Laughlin estimated first quarter net at slightly below $2,000,000 compared with net loss of $333,279 year ago.

The first 17 railroads to report for March—representing about 35 per cent of total operating revenues of the industry—show increase over a year ago of 77.9 per cent in combined net operating income on a 26.9 per cent expansion in gross.

Great Northern Railway reported March net loss of $881,006 compared with $802,740 year ago.

Shifts Grow Out of Pastors' Activities

both with any organization of the mill workers, but he had been unable to convince Mr. Ball that he had the wrong attitude. Mr. Silberstein stated that he had nothing to do with the pastor's transfer, and that he had made no threat to "drive Mr. Ball out of town," but had merely talked with him concerning the labor movement.

However, Mr. Ball's statement of facts did not coincide with that of the Chamber of Commerce president. The minister told of introducing several of his congregational members to a labor organizer and telling them that, "I was a mill worker I would join the union as a means of bettering myself."

This was the only part of the controversy that Mr. Silberstein threatened to drive me out of town within a week for interfering in the labor situation.

The question of the whole controversy seemed to be social justice versus capitalism with the Official Board of the church insisting that the pastor not interfere in the activities of the business men of the community, and the pastor claiming that, "It is my belief that the church is of no value to the community if its activities are controlled by business interests and politicians."

Planned Plane Flight.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 26 (AP)—Dr. Jean Edward announced today he was planning a two-day aerial trip to the state capital with a small biplane. He said the proposed flight would probably be made near Rochester, Minn., sometime in June, and would be a forerunner to one he is planning for next year with several thousand balloons.

Georgia Law Revised.

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The supreme court declared unconstitutional today an 1871 Georgia law prohibiting injunction against the state, under which Annie Hamilton, Chattanooga labor community organizer, was sentenced to 15 to 20 years in the state penitentiary.

New York, April 26 (AP)—Stocks tumbled 1 to 5 or more points in today's market.

Activity was sufficient at times to put the ticker tape behind, but volume dried up frequently and dealings were light near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of about 2,900,000 shares.

Die in State Over Week-End; 3 in Auto Crashes, 4 in Water

Albany, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Three persons died in traffic fatalities and the bodies of four persons who met death by drowning were recovered over the week-end in upstate New York.

The dead: Miss Alice Meyer, 17-year-old Albany High School senior, injured fatally in an automobile-truck-trailer collision in Albany-Schenectady road, died in Ellis Hospital, Schenectady, where her companion, Richard Egan, of Albany, was reported in "fair" condition.

John Loris, Sr., 63, Syracuse, crushed beneath an overturned truck driven by Frederick E. Friedman, 56, who pleaded innocent when arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, second degree, in connection with the accident.

John T. Early, 21, of Albion, fatally injured when his car, police reported, was crowded off the road near Medina and side swiped two telephone poles.

Daniel Shaw, 53, Saranac Lake, the finding of whose body in a golf course pool ended a five months search. Coroner George A. Culver ordered an autopsy. Shaw was reported missing October 27, 1936.

Albert Aubin, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Armond Aubin, of Canastota, whose body was recovered in Ausable Chasm. The body was discovered washed up on rocks along the Ausable River in which the child drowned February 20.

Howard Beger, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beger of Elmburg, drowned in a brook near his home. A brother, Roy, who started search when the child failed to return home, helped recover the body.

John Frank, 22, Rome constable, accidentally shot by his own shotgun while his hand was over the muzzle. He died in Rome Hospital despite two blood transfusions given by his policeman brother, Clarence L. Frank.

Near Canton, a two-weeks' search for Thomas Plumley, 81-year-old Norwood farmer, ended with the finding of his body with both wrists slashed in nearby woods. A Jack knife was found near the body. Coroner S. Pope Brown gave a verdict of suicide.

In Buffalo, John Grzedzielski, 15, was accidentally shot and killed by a rifle in the hands of a playmate during a shooting match. Assistant Detective Chief William J. Madigan said Richard Mazewicz, 15, told him the gun discharged when he slipped and fell.

Walter Gamble, 15, drowned in rain swollen Honeoye creek near Honeoye Falls, the first drowning victim of the season.

"NEWSBOY EVANGELIST" TO SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

The Rev. Harry Black, "Newsboy Evangelist," of Los Angeles, author of many spiritual books and wide-world revivalist, will deliver a special address tonight at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on the subject, "What I Saw in India, Egypt, Palestine and Jerusalem." He will illustrate his message with several hundred feet of moving pictures, some of them in natural color, taken by him on his recent trip. He just arrived on the S. S. Normandie from England and the near East.

Tonight's service will mark the close of a seven days' revival campaign the "Newsboy Evangelist" has been conducting at the Tremper Avenue Free Methodist Church, of which the Rev. Louis Smith is pastor.

But due to the overflow crowd which is expected tonight, the Rev. McGrath has kindly opened his church at the corner of Liberty street and Clinton avenue for tonight's 8 o'clock and farrell service, which will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

As a prelude to tonight's message and moving pictures the Rev. Mr. Black will give a portion of his life story and will also answer the question, "What is the Mark of the Beast of Revelation 12th Chapter?" All are free and the public is invited.

"NOT THROUGH YET"

Mrs. Violet Norton, 47-year-old Englishwoman, is shown as she was returned to her Los Angeles jail cell after she was convicted of mail fraud for trying to obtain money from Clark Gable, screen actor, by asserting he was the father of her daughter. "I'm not through yet," she said as she indicated she would demand a blood test to prove her contention.

100 Attend Party at Woodstock Library

Woodstock, April 26—Nearly 100 Woodstock children, teachers and parents attended the event of the juvenile social season the Woodstock library on Friday evening. Refreshments and variety entertainment made a successful affair of the 10th anniversary party in honor of the library's occupation of the present building. Children began arriving at 7 o'clock for the party scheduled for 8 o'clock, evidencing the enthusiasm aroused by the occasion. Children from Woodstock schools, district schools and high schools attended.

Milton Wolven opened the program with two violin selections. This was followed by harmonica music by Carson Hutchins. A popular part of the musical program was provided by Victor Allen, guitar; Richard Bunny, songs; Jack Peacock, mouth organ; Ord Morrell and John Finch, accordion.

The main features of the program, talks by Dyrus and Edith Cook, were saved for the latter part of the evening. Mrs. Cook spoke of hiking and camping on Catskill trails. She related many interesting experiences she and Mr. Cook have had with their donkeys on the numerous trips they have made. She illustrated her talk with lantern slide scenes, which included pictures of Woodstock winter sports.

In the intermission which preceded Mr. Cook's talk lollypops were passed, much to the enjoyment of the audience.

Mr. Cook told stories of animals that he has met on his hiking trips, and other tales taken from several years experience in hiking through the Catskills and from a trip the Cooks and their donkey, "Jackie," made a few years ago through New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Mrs. W. O. Thompson, librarian, who acted as hostess, closed the evening's program with a promise that another such party would be held in the near future, with the girls participating in the entertainment.

Rev. McGrath Gets Welcome on Return

Rev. Howard Dixon McGrath, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, who has just been returned to the church for the fourth year, was greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience as he entered the pulpit Sunday morning at the weekly service. As he entered the pulpit steps a large basket of flowers with a ribbon streamer containing the words "Best Wishes" greeted and greatly surprised him.

Later in the service he acknowledged the gift with very timely words and telling of his pleasure in being returned to the congregation for another year and expressing the hope that the coming year would be just as pleasant and prosperous as had the previous three years.

Both the Junior and Senior choirs were present in large numbers and furnished a special program of music.

BIRTHDAY

Pomp and power attended Adolf
Hitler's birthday celebration in Berlin. It was only his 48th—he is still a young man, though there are indications that he begins to feel old.
Thousands of soldiers marched in review before him and received the Nazi salute. Squadrons of war planes roared overhead. Hundreds of military tanks rumbled past. Foreign diplomats and their staffs paid homage. Children of cabinet members came and curtsied before the leader.
There were bands and fanfare without end, and there was an enormous birthday cake with a swastika on it.

It was a big day for the man whose name, as a news correspondent reminded his readers, "has been pronounced probably more times than that of any other figure in contemporary history." That's from the ritualistic "Hell-Blitzing" that not only greets his every appearance but is supposed to open and close every address, every meeting, every radio
performance, every telephone talk, every casual greeting of friends and acquaintances, in Germany. Never in history was there a man—not even a Roman Caesar—who so drummed
his name into the ears of mankind.

And there was a new outgiving at that celebration. It was the announcement that Hitler is writing
another book to supplement "My Struggle," in which he told the story of his rise to power. This volume will be a secret document, containing his governmental philosophy and advice for the instruction of Nazi leaders when he is gone.

His system, Hitler has declared,
will live for a thousand years. That is a long time, even for nations. But they may be naming millenniums for him. We can imagine a time far hence—if we're good imaginers—
when the reading of that book in a
then-forgotten language will be a religious rite, and when people meeting on the streets will greet each other with the mystic salutation
"I-lit-lit!" not knowing what it means.

A BREAK FOR COMMUTERS

An eastern railroad announced recently that it would reduce the commuter service between certain points and New York City. That part of its traffic was losing money. Commuters got excited and took the matter up directly with railroad officials.
From these meetings came a second announcement. The road agreed to improve service and study possible fare cuts. The commuters, on their part, agreed to begin an inquiry to determine why 50 per cent of the possible train riders along the line
use motor transportation to New York and whether, with more and better trains, they would not gladly change to railroad travel.

What the outcome of these experiments and investigations may be remains to be seen. The railroad may get enough new passenger business
by its liberal policy to make the service pay. It may even find that the good will developed by generosity to commuters pays financially in freight handled. Or it may continue to lose money on a hopeless proposition. At any rate, the method of experiment, cooperation and mutual helpfulness is a wise one. More problems of business, industry and government would be solved if this method were always applied.

INFLAMMATORY TALK

The New York Times properly
criticizes speeches made at an anti-communism rally by some speakers who thought themselves good Americans. These well-meaning gentlemen loudly demanded that all our Communists be sent back to the country where they came from.
The Times wants to know whether that means they are to be deported
not because they have broken any American law, but because of their opinions. One particularly patriotic speaker warned the Reds that, while he hoped to outwrestle them in power for a time, that when it came to

It has been in Spain, we'll let them
have it."

Well, let these rash orators take a look at Spain today, and see what their attitude has led to, and what it has won for their sort of patriots
over there. Most of us, since observing that Spanish war, have been more inclined than ever to settle our differences of political and economic opinion constitutionally, with ballots, rather than arbitrarily, with bullets, bombs, tanks, liquid fire,
civilian massacres and starvation.

HONESTY ABOUT MUSIC

Kindly and understanding words are spoken by Dr. Max Schoen of Carnegie School of Technology. He says "good music," for any individual, is music that particular person enjoys. He advises people to listen to music "as their musical powers permit" and not strain to enjoy or pretend to understand all of grand opera or a symphony concert
if it doesn't really mean something to them.

Such advice does not restrict the enjoyment of music to a gifted few.
There is good popular music. Also,
it is possible to grow in musical appreciation. That has been shown by the excellent music work done in public schools, on the radio, and by orchestra concerts for children. It is shown, too, by the increase in the amount of first class music, both instrumental and vocal, on the air. If there were not many listeners and much delight in such programs, they would not be so numerous.

That Body of Hours

TREATING ELDERLY PEOPLE

While most of us are familiar with the word "pediatrics"—diseases of children—we are not familiar with another word that is now becoming quite commonly used; that is geriatrics—diseases of elderly people.

That the lives of children should be saved and that the lives of those who are middle-aged should be preserved for many more years has been taken as a matter of course, but that anything should be done to make old people feel better, take an interest
and a part in life, has, until recently,
not been given much consideration.
Today, because many of these elderly people are close to our hearts and because many of them have still much to contribute to the welfare of the community, definite measures are being taken to keep them as clear as possible of ailments and enable them to enjoy life despite conditions such as heart disease, chronic bronchitis and asthma, stiff joints, frequency of urination, and others.

Dean Irving S. Cutler, Northwestern University Medical School tells us that "there are hundreds of thousands of elderly people whose powers should be preserved to the end, as the mind's activity does not depend upon physical robustness, and these people can contribute to society until they are eighty and ninety years old;
think of Edison, Weir Mitchell, Oliver Wendell Holmes and many others. We need the fire and enthusiasm of youth, and the energy of maturity, but we need also the wisdom that comes only with much experience."

Old age is not a disease but a process of ripening and physicians should give more thought to keeping bodies in good working order, to house the ripened minds. We should advise our elderly patients that, with advancing years, they must meet the new situation—become an interested part of the audience rather than an actor on life's stage—and find useful activities and hobbies consistent with their physical abilities."

Dr. Cutler then outlines to his fellow physicians some of the methods of treating heart, kidney and other conditions met by old people and makes suggestions as to diet, and how to keep the intestine properly active.

This paper given before the 1936
Assembly of Interstate Post-Graduate Medical Association of North America
at St. Paul, Minn., should stimulate the interest of physicians in their elderly patients. "Life's greatest achievement is to grow old happily and helpfully, and keep interested in people and in things."

Weight Praises Drivers

of ten know how tall they are, it was learned by the city drivers' license bureau, which was forced to this information from automobile

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: In one wild and stormy night at Farrington Bluff,
home of Michael's, a young man, Blindspot, an old flame of mine, is shot to death on the bluff; the Skipper, Mike's tall and tweedy younger aunt, disappears, and falling into the churning surf.
The Skipper returns to my shed
been in the stable with her sick colt. Aunt Martha, stout and prudent, has hysterics a couple of times. Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart, keeps a fairly sane view. Next morning at breakfast, everyone has tangled nerves.

Chapter Nine

Searching The Grounds

LIGHTING a cigarette, the Skipper contributed, "Martha's breakfasting upstairs. She'll be down later." And audience descended upon the dining room.

For the space of about five minutes we crunched bacon and consumed coffee without incident. Higgins, looking rather needy, appeared with fresh toast, opened his mouth
to ask about Michael, discreetly
closed it again, and took himself off.
The Skipper smoked furiously, and the rest of us kept our eyes on our plates. Then, monotonously and with irritating force, Gay's fingers began a steady tattoo on the tablecloth. At least two sets of nerves promptly began to act up again. Michael's cup went down with a bang that bathed
the surrounding territory in coffee.

"Damn it, Gay, quit that, can't you?"
Gay flared. "Don't be so touchy!"
Before I could get in my two cents' worth of sunshine, the Skipper interposed. "Easy, kids! Let's talk this over."

That being the one thing we all had in mind, we lapsed into silence.
The Skipper smiled.

"We might as well look it in the face. These storms always last at least three days, which means that we must stick together or go mad.
There's been a tragic accident which we must certainly explain to the satisfaction of everyone. If we're to keep from each other's throats—not to mention Jude's family or the local police."

Michael was breathing so fast and so heavily that I could distinctly hear him across the table. The Skipper waited for someone to speak. No one did. She sighed.

"Obviously there are two possibilities. Jude was killed either accidentally or intentionally, and in either case by some member of this household. If it was accidental, we should be able to establish that fact immediately. If it wasn't—"

Another pause, this time a breathless one.

Then—"we shall have to establish that fact too," concluded the Skipper.

Michael's voice was hoarse. "But what can we do?"

I answered him with more hope in my voice than conviction. "For one thing we can search the grounds.
There must be a clue of some sort out there. It's the only logical answer."

Michael shot me a peculiar look.
"Why not let it rest?" he demanded.
"You know damn well that there's no one out there. We can't help Jude now. Old Foster would give us a fake certificate if the Skipper asked him, and we could say that she'd fallen off the bluff in the storm and
—and forget about it."

I had known Michael since we were 17, but I had never heard him make such a proposal. Neither had Gay. She gasped in amazement. Once more the Skipper climbed into the breach.

"Michael, don't be ridiculous. Accidents don't need hushing up. And if it's not an accident, Jude's parents and his wife, have a right to know
it. And no right to let a deliberate murderer remain at large."

Grasping At A Straw

OUT of the numbness his speech
had produced in my head came an idea. Mike thought the Skipper was guilty! Wild elephants could never have dragged that suggestion from him otherwise. And there she sat, insisting that we investigate. I grasped at a feeble straw.

"Mike! The footprints! The footprints on the tennis courts. There must be someone out there. We'd have noticed the clay on anyone's feet
in the house."

Michael's eyes were far away.
"Drop it, I say. For God's sake, Jim, what good will it do? I tell you there's no one there. It just keeps things boiling to pretend there is."

"There must be!" Gay was on her feet. "Mike, don't be a sap. These grounds must be searched, and if you won't go with Jimmie, I will and so will William."

"And so will I," said the Skipper.
"and so will I," said the Skipper.
"and so will I," said the Skipper.

Michael looked at her, a long look that to me, at least, could not be described. "All right, Skipper," he said
at last.

We took all sorts of precautions.

Heavy jackets, blankets, boots, plenty of brandy, and Higgins' revolver.
With the exception of Cook and Annie, we all assembled in the library
and none of us looked cheerful.
My own state of mind was a bad jumble. My thoughts were whirling from Jude and the past to the ghastly reality of the present, surrured on by a certain insistent suspicion that made my blood run cold. Action of any sort was a godsend. The probability of accomplishing anything was another matter. I should have preferred leaving both Gay and the Skipper in the house, but there was a glint in the former's eyes that invited no interference and I had never given the Skipper an order in my life. Furthermore, I wasn't counting on Michael for anything. M. Farrington voiced my feeling to the letter.

"It strikes me, Barbara, that you and Grace will be more in the way than anything else. And Michael has no business out of bed. I should think that James and William would get along much better alone."

Gay's chin came up with a jerk and I braced myself for the deluge, but the Skipper spoke before it could get started.

"Two people can't search these grounds, Martha. Gay and I can take care of ourselves, and I think Michael's mind will be easier if he goes.
He's well wrapped up. Don't fuss."

"Barbara, I will not allow it." Her voice was rising. Unless I missed my guess, she was warning for a scene and it was going to be a corker. "I absolutely insist!"

But Michael's patience snapped. He whispered to M. Farrington.

"Rot, Aunt Martha! All the servants are here but William, and the doors and windows are locked."

His words were rude, and his manner ruder. But M. Farrington amazed us. The explosion for which we breathlessly waited never came.

"Very well, my dear," she said quietly. I could have knocked Mike down with pleasure.

Footprints Still There

WE went out the west door from the game-room, a wet, cold wind howling up to meet us. Since I had suggested the expedition, it was more or less up to me to engineer it. Accordingly, I stationed William halfway between the edge of the bluff
and the house, with Michael and Gay at intervals along the drive. That left the grounds divided into four sections. I took the Skipper with me.
Beginning at the edge of the bluff to the west, we went down toward the boathouse. In one way and the other we were better off than on the previous night. At least it was now possible to see more than 10 feet ahead
of you.

Water still lapped the former side of the boathouse steps. A large section of the pier had washed away,
and the boathouse was completely flooded. We went up along the path to the courts, which we scrutinized thoroughly.

The footprints were still there.
They ran across the courts to the drive, seeming to start from the rocks just above us. It was impossible to tell how large had been the foot that had left those prints or in what direction they had been heading. They were just shallow impressions in soft clay, rather like the marks left by walking across a melting sheet of ice.

The wind was still at our backs. Up the steep and slippery rocks we went, the Skipper disdaining my help. The tracks seemed to lead to completely covered by with thrashing
water that boiled up in our faces.
Silently I pointed to the foot of Michael's disaster and the Skipper nodded. We went down cautiously, separated at the foot of the rocks,
and compassed the remaining section of the lawn between us. Nothing. A short distance up the drive stood Gay, looking like a drowned rat. She waved, but only half-heartedly.

We went up the drive toward the stable, the wind in our faces and the rain cutting like lashes of a whip.
With every step the haunting thought that Jude might have lain
for a long time wounded and still conscious in that drenching whirlwind followed me. It was slow progress.

The east beach was completely flooded. By following the drive, we got a clear view both of the section of lawn between us and the house and of the section between us and the beach. I stationed the Skipper at the corner of the garage and went toward the stable, clearing and sliding along on my hands and knees most of the way.
Rounding the corner, the foot of William far down the bluff where I had stationed him. And between us
—nothing.

In front of the stable the Skipper joined me. Both it and the garage were securely padlocked. It seemed to me that to search either of those buildings would be a tacit admission of disbelief in her alibi. I hesitated, but not so the Skipper. Producing a key, she unlocked the stable. Without a word I followed her inside.

(Copyright, 1937, Esther Tyler)

We had everyone had slept in the room over the garage.

Twenty and ten years ago.

April 25, 1917.—Kingston and Ulster county pledged support to President Wilson and to Congress and adopted resolutions urging selective conscription for army and navy at high school auditorium.

Kingston Rotary Club paid visit to Newburgh and assisted in organizing a

What's Doing in the N.Y. Legislature Today

Albany, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Today in New York's legislature:

Both Senate and Assembly convene at 9:30 to consider heavy calendars.

The Assembly introduced a bill for the repeal of the law providing for the state's financial system.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Murray Korman
thinks the current harvest of Park avenue debs will have to hurry if they

They're smarter, brainer, and they dress with more dash and style. Look at that girl there." He indicated an ingenue who had waited in on the arm of some local swain, and you caught at a glance just what Korman meant.
She was a flash of restless color.

"What Park avenue needs," continued Herr Korman, spearing a crisp dorsal fin, "is a stage director and better lighting effects. Those kids haven't a chance against actresses and girls who dance in the night clubs—that is, in making impressions on the marriageable lads. They're trained, apt performers. They know stance, style, verve."

IT DIDN'T take much nosing about to learn that he was led into these solemn cogitations by the recent uproar over pictures of Heloise Martin, the Drake college co-ed and ex-show girl, taken in a college shower and in the arms of a campus hero.

"The girl on the stage is following a script. When she steps off stage she keeps right on acting.
She can do things a girl on Park avenue can't do. She knows how to know about. What if she does show a leg or reveal a tempting curve or so? She's just as modest, really, as girls of 10 or 15 years ago. As I get it, the difference is that she has acquired glamor. The girl on the other side of town knows only what the fashion books tell her."

Just on the odd chance you may think Master Korman doesn't know what he is talking about, because he is a photographer, I should advise that he has photographed
more than 300,000 women in some 15 years of steady camera-clicking. These have been girls from night clubs, lasses in cigarette ads, maids in lingerie, young women in the movies and everywhere else.

FROM this experience Korman
has deduced this grain of philosophy: "Beauty is a career and a beautiful woman who undresses is merely building up her career. A man who owns a fine yacht is proud of it, isn't he? A woman with a wealth of natural beauty is no different; she too is proud."

Studying Christopher

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS
CROW knew that he should be on his way with the note the little man with a white beard had written to him. But he was so tired and so hard to leave the school and the children when he was having such a good time. He excused himself by thinking that there was really no great rush in telling the circus

people that their monkey and donkey and elephant were in Puddle Muddle.

The teacher of the school
was thinking it could be a very good idea if he changed the lessons into a nature study class.

"You see before you," she said,
"a Crow. He seems like quite an intelligent crow. He understands a great deal that we say. But I have looked at him carefully and he has not had his tongue slit although I've noticed that he says a number of words so that we can almost understand them."

But Crow cannot speak any better if he has his tongue slit.
That is an old saying, and absolutely false."

Christopher was delighted to hear this.

"I suppose it started because if a crow is around long enough he is apt to become rather tame and he is an intelligent bird."

"Caw, caw, caw," said Christopher happily.

"And so," the teacher continued,
"he picks up a few odd words—
but it is not because any one has slit his tongue. That has nothing to do with the case at all, and is merely a cruel torture and means nothing in itself."

"He learns words through his cleverness and because he is around people so that he is the first and most important crow fact. I hope you have all learned this lesson."

Required English Language
Francis Bacon, the famous philosopher, politician, scientist, and writer, who lived under Queen Elizabeth and James I. despised the English language. Although his own class, Stuart prose is perhaps the finest to which Englishmen have ever reached. He wrote his most important books in Latin because he wanted them to be read by future generations, and he believed that the English language would be lost and forgotten. He even had some of his English writings translated into Latin for that reason.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVES

WASHINGTON—Thousands of women and children are starving in Bilbao, and yet there are English ships, laden with food,
within sight of the city.

The ships won't go in. Does it make you fighting mad to see the rebel blockade ships? "Here, you, get out of the way while we go
in and feed those widows and orphans."

It made a lot of Englishmen
mad. But the British government leaders remained calm. They said,
in effect:

"Sure we can get our food ships into Bilbao if we want to. Then cruiser Hood is down here. It can lick the whole Spanish navy. But if we shoot our way in there we may have to fight Italy and Germany about it. We can lick Italy.
We can lick Germany. Probably after a long time we can lick both of them."

"But that is war. We don't want war."

Not Foolproof

NOW that all sounds very far away from America. What do we care what the British do at Bilbao? Soon we will have a new neutrality act. That will keep us out of trouble.

That is one of the crazy impres-

Cooler-Offers

There are two types of neutrality bill now being debated behind closed doors of the senate-home conference committee. The bill passed by the senate says:
No arms can be shipped to warring nations. And if the President thinks it is dangerous, no food or other supplies may be shipped to warring nations unless carried in ships that don't belong to Americans.

The bill passed by the house
says: Let's leave it up to the President whether we ship arms
and food to warring nations.

The best either bill can do is to help keep us calm for a while
when some incident arouses us.
Real peace and security must be hunted down some other alley.

CHAPTER 9

An Abandoned Village

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

Volcanic Tank
Hornersville, Mo.—George Wells passed a burning match to the ground near the mouth of a pipe leading to an underground gasoline tank, caused for 17 years.

Mud and pebbles bubbled from the pipe. Then the tank, a few feet away, exploded. Wells is well. He wasn't hurt.

Fresh Ice
Winchester, Va.—Poultry dealers today received an order to discontinue immediately the practice of selling cold storage fowls as "fresh killed." Order was signed by Mayor C. R. Anderson.

Purchaser had found ice in chicken sold as "fresh killed." Purchaser was mayor.

Student Dictators
Hamilton, N. Y.—Dr. Rodney L. Mott, of Colgate University's social science department, says, "Dictators are here to stay, for a while at least,

and the students might just as well know how they work."

No India Rubber Man
Seattle—Taking a health expert's advice that he should stretch when awakening in the morning, Lessing Cohna woke up and stretched.

He stretched so thoroughly that he was taken to a hospital with a dislocated right shoulder so physicians could unstretch it.

Friends Indeed

Port Arthur, Texas—speaking of speed:

As a courtesy to Mrs. Bryan Vick, widow of a fellow union member, the carpenter's union built her a four-room house in a day's time. Construction was begun at 8 a. m. and finished by nightfall. Forty carpenters did the work.

They Both Work

'The Lynds' Put Heads Together To Write Their Way To Success

Still Find Time To Ride Bikes Every Day

Instead of choosing between marriage and a career, many a top-notch in American professions and business has teamed up with husband or wife. In a series of articles, of which this is the first, Sigrid Arne, AP Feature Service writer, tells how some of them have done it.

By SIGRID ARNE

(AP Feature Service Writer)

New York—"The Lynds" think they are fortunate because they are known as "The Lynds." They like it that way.

Conventionally speaking, they're Prof. Robert Lynd of the sociology division in Columbia's graduate school, and Prof. Helen Lynd, sociology lecturer at Sarah Lawrence college for women.

They took a flying leap together to the top of the ladder in their profession when they wrote "Middletown," a study of a typical American city.

They spent a year and a half in Muncie, Ind., doing research for the book, and now they're publishing a second on the subject.

It's Soul Shattering
They tell about it this way, between chuckles:

He: "Writing a book with someone you're married to is a soul shattering ordeal. It's really friendly 'cat and dog'ing."

She: "We divided the work to be done in sections, wrote separately, and then edited together."

He: "We made a deal that neither

Professors Lynd, Robert and Helen

Writing With Some One You're Married To Is "Soul Shattering"

could throw away the other's work without warning."

She: And when we finished, we both needed a good wife to bring in the carpet slippers."

They are as frank as children about their experience with marriage and work. Marriage is one of the sociological problems they teach. So they accepted a stiff challenge to their theories about 15 years ago when they said, "I do."

Hiking Was Their Cupid
Lynd was just out of Princeton; Mrs. Lynd had finished Wellesley. He was hiking down Mount Washington in the White Mountains, when he met a man with two girls. They stopped to chat. Lynd thought: "Nice. They like to hike." When one of the girls mentioned Thoreau, the economist, Lynd was intrigued. He continued down the mountain, and the other party went up—without introductions. Two days later Lynd puffed up the mountain again to see if the girl had signed the guest book at the top. She had. He wrote to her.

And where did they spend their honeymoon? Hiking on Mount Washington, talking about Thoreau, et al.

They still hike on Sundays. Their boy, Stoughton, goes along, but little Andrea, the three-year-old daughter, participates only in the Lynds' daily before-breakfast ride in Central Park. That's something. The whole family goes on bicycles, with Andrea in a basket, strapped to fathers handle-bars. The cops no longer look astonished.

Life's A Family Affair
The Lynds try to do everything as a family.

After dinner, their "priceless" Irish housekeeper puts the young Lynds to bed, and the elder Lynds die into books. They can actually work in the same room "because," as Mr. Lynd says, "Helen isn't the kind that chatters."

They think the life they're working out together is intrinsically more important than any they could have achieved alone. Evenings are the critical periods for married workers; they find. After fatiguing days they're likely to come home with different moods. Then comes intelligent compromise. The one who wants to go out must stay home gladly if the other is tired. The one who wants to read must grin if the other brings a guest. And so on.

But the Lynds laugh over the friend who groaned at their wedding: "They each needed an anchor and they both got a sail."

Tomorrow: Helen Hayes and Charlie MacArthur.

PEP in the social work of Mrs. John W. Rockwell, J. (right), prominent New York social worker. And Camel is her favorite cigarette. "When I scurry back on feet ground, I smoke a Camel," she says. "It's wonderful when you're tired to get a lift with a Camel."

SURVEYOR William Barrett (left) speaking: "When I begin to feel below par, it's me for a Camel and that invigorating 'lift' in energy. Being a Camel smoker, I don't know what jagged nerves mean."

Costlier Tobaccos—Camels are made from the finest, purest tobacco leaves. They are the most expensive tobacco—Tobacco and Camels—than any other popular brand.

Children—Now and Then
I am glad that I was born—and reared—back in the good old days. Before they raised them "by the book", in these new fangled ways. I have no memories of hours spent chewing a raw carrot. Of course, I might have liked it then—but now, I couldn't bear it. And when I asked for candy—I got some; but if children try it. These days, their parents substitute a lovely spinach diet. When I see children eat tasteless junk not fit for some wild beast, I'm thankful I grew up before 'twas wrong for children to feast.

The fellow who doesn't believe in a vacation and rest in the one whose work is so poor he fears they'll find out while he's away how useless he really is.

Big Game Hunter—Keep your eye on that leopard.
Gun Carrier—Don't worry, boss; he's spotted.

If reason were a bit more romantic, more people might be moved to give it a try.

First Camper—I do all the cooking and baking for you girls, and what do I get? Nothing!
Second Camper—You're lucky then. We get indigestion.

If you expect people to cheer you, you must take a chance on them laughing at you.

Fred—Where are you from?
Karl—South Dakota.
Fred—My! You don't talk like a Southerner.

READ IT OR NOT—The crowd does not fly straight.

Hangman—Pat, do you have anything to say before we drop the trap?
Pat—Yes, by gorry, this thing don't look safe.

When radio performers get too easy to work up a new number they repeat an old one and say it is by request.

Squires' Wife—And where is your daughter, Mrs. Hodges?
Mrs. Hodges—Well, to tell you the truth, mum, her was that useless in the house that I sent her to domestic service.

Suppose we quit talking so much about the officers failing to enforce the law and more about our failure to obey.

Friend—You say you were once cast away on a desert island, entirely without food? How did you live?
Henderson—Oh, I happened to have an insurance policy in my pocket and I found enough provisions on it to keep me alive until I was rescued.

A good way to enjoy the best is to be prepared for the worst.

Mother—But, darling, you're using the pen without any ink.
Daughter (aged 9)—Yes, mummy, this letter is very confidential.

It is hard to see the silver lining of a cloud when you get caught in the rain.

The frugal Scot was taking his son for a walk, when he said thoughtfully:

Scot—Son, have you got on your Sunday shoes?
Son—Ayen, Father.
Scot—Then take longer steps.

A good many of the men secretly think that this country was a great deal nicer place in which to live when the women thought that the words "party obligations" meant nothing more than the duty of returning their social debts.

Fresh Young Thing (over the phone)—This is Dream Daddy speaking!
Sweet Young Thing (with a click)—You sound like a nightmare.

It is hard for a rich man to get to heaven, or jail.

Utopia, Kas., according to the last census, has six inhabitants.

That Reckless Spitter—

Have you seen him? The one who spits all the time, everywhere? Don't you, say to him, "You're a nuisance to your community."

Years ago we began placing NO SPITTING signs in our public places and communities. But how well is your local anti-spitting law being obeyed?

Remember that tobacco is a special delicacy by modern custom.

FLATBUSH.

Flatbush, April 24.—The T. X. T. Club at its regular meeting last week Tuesday, had the pleasure of listening to a splendid talk on "Red Letter Days" by Professor Tubbs of Lake Katrine. His talk was so interesting that all the members hoped to hear Professor Tubbs soon again. Delicious refreshments were served by the April committee, the Misses Stella Ketterman and Elizabeth Davis, after which games were enjoyed.

The Ladies' Aid of the Flatbush Reformed Church, held an all day quilting at the church hall on Wednesday and finished the quilt that was started the previous week. They will hold another all day quilting next Wednesday, April 28. All ladies are cordially invited to come and help. A pot luck luncheon will be served.

The Christian Endeavor Society held its Sunday evening service in the church and had as its guests, the Rev. Mr. Neander, and four members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Saugerties Reformed Church. The young people had attended the Burden Lake Conference and told of their experiences there. Much interest was shown and many questions asked regarding the conference.

A Saturday evening friends surprised Mrs. John Dimmiller on the occasion of her birthday. After a delightful evening of games, delicious refreshments were served. Look after midnight the guests left, wishing Mrs. Dimmiller many more happy birthdays. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmiller, Sr. and Mrs. Harry France and daughter, Carol, Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmiller, Jr., of Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis and Miss Mildred Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kukuk, Miss Charlotte Edinger, Mr. and Mrs. John Merrill and son, Raymond; Matthew France and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Swart of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moak have been spending some time at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Moak and Mrs. Elizabeth Myers. Henry Griswold of Jersey City, N. J., was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Doll over the weekend.

The F. B. C.'s met at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hill on Friday evening, April 16. Miss Ada Burbanck scored highest. After the games delicious strawberry short cake and coffee were served by the hostess. Others present were Miss Mary Osterhoudt, Mrs. Fred Kukuk, Mrs. C. M. Ducker, Miss Phoebe Cheshire and Miss Stella Ketterman.

On Tuesday evening, April 20, about 50 friends in Flatbush gave the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Osterhoudt, a surprise shower and house warming. Both the bride and groom seemed pleased and surprised to see so many come marching in. They received many lovely and useful gifts. The evening was spent playing cards and general conversation, after which refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were enjoyed by all. At a late hour the guests departed, wishing the young people many years of wedded happiness and success. Mrs. Osterhoudt before her marriage was Miss Margaret Lachmann.

Prayer meeting was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pearson.

Friends of Mrs. Harold Osterhoudt will be glad to learn that she is recovering nicely from her recent operation and has returned again to her home here.

Miss Charlotte Edinger spent two days in Albany with a group of 4-H Club young people and Mr. Hencel, their 4-H Club manager.

Mrs. Frederick Kukuk motored to Troy last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fritzell of Glendale, L. I., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klothe, Sr., and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klothe, Jr. On Sunday afternoon they all enjoyed a ride through the mountains and experienced the thrill of going over the mountain from Eureka to West Shokan.

Mrs. Anna Miller is spending some time visiting her aunt Mrs. Conyes of Kingston.

The regular monthly meeting of the T. X. T. Club will be held on Tuesday evening, April 27.

A number of young people of the Flatbush Christian Endeavor Society were guests at the meeting of the C. E. Society of the Saugerties Reformed Church on Wednesday evening.

Miss Mildred Davis, a student at New Paltz Normal, was among the members of her Science Class who motored to New York City Thursday to visit the Hayden Planetarium, Radio City and other places of interest.

The "Third Group" of letters of the Ladies' Aid of the Flatbush Reformed Church, the "H. S. J. K." will sponsor an African Night at the church hall on Friday evening, April 30. Refreshments will be served after the entertainment and will be included in the nominal charge. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The annual fair and supper of the Ladies' Aid will be held on Wednesday August 4. The ladies are busy sewing and expect to have a fine display of useful articles.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kieffer who spent the winter in Florida, have returned to their home here.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Societies Clubs Personals

Krajewski's Held Golden Wedding

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Archileus Krajewski of 46 Third avenue celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, commemorating their marriage with a high Mass in immaculate Conception Church, and a reception at their home.

A year after their marriage in Poland, Mr. and Mrs. Krajewski left for America and settled in Kingston, becoming staunch American progressive citizens. Both took every active part in contributing physical and financial aid toward the building of parish buildings. Despite her 70 years, Mrs. Krajewski is still active in the societies of the church. Mr. Krajewski is 80.

Mr. Krajewski's have three sons, John and Frank at home, and Felix of Detroit, and one daughter, Francis, wife of Anthony Esposito of Schenectady.

Relatives and friends of the Krajewskis crowded immaculate Conception Church for the Mass of anniversary yesterday. The Rev. Francis P. Borowski, pastor, was the celebrant, and gave an appropriate sermon on the bonds of matrimony and the faithfulness of the aged couple during their 50 years of wedded bliss.

The children's choir sang hymns during the Mass, and at the offertory Miss Helene Mae, NBC soloist, sang "Are Maria." The altar was especially decorated for the occasion by the nuns of immaculate Conception School where the Krajewski children received their elementary education.

After the Mass, Mr. and Mrs. Krajewski marched to the altar, where Father Borowski pronounced a special blessing, asking God to spare them for many more happy anniversaries, and to favor them with the good health they are enjoying. Both are active despite their age.

Mr. Krajewski lives a retired life with the exception of doing chores around his home, but Mrs. Krajewski busies herself with housework the same as during the years of her youth. She does her own work and prepares the meals.

Although she attends all of the social functions of the parish, Mrs. Krajewski looks forward every year to the annual masquerade held in the parish school hall. She attends in costume, never failing to win a prize, and has as much fun as the young folks doing the custom dances she enjoyed as Miss Antoinette Gardeski in Poland when she was a girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Krajewski were showered with congratulatory messages at their home, and received many floral pieces as expressions of good cheer and well wishes for many more happy years together.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Warren of Downsville, Delaware county, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Russell of Brewster street.

Surprise Shower.

Tuesday evening Miss Catherine Mooney was guest of honor at a surprise shower given at the home of her mother, Mrs. William Mooney, of Adams street. A buffet supper was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quilter, Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Patmore, Mr. and Mrs. William Mooney, Mrs. Ada McAndrew, Mrs. John McGrath, Mrs. Ira Rion, Mrs. John Wolf, Mrs. Alfred Wood, Mrs. Jacob Myers, Mrs. James Finerty, Mrs. John Houghtaling, Mrs. Alice Ahl, Miss Elisabeth Brustman, Miss May Brustman, Miss Verale Mooney, Miss Margaret McGrath, Harold Lane, William Gundy and John Mooney.

TB Patients Entertained

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital arranged for two programs last week for the pleasure of the patients.

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented an historical play entitled, "A Dish of China Tea" which they had given previously at the Chapter House. Miss Margaret O'Sullivan, instructor in occupational therapy at the hospital, was one of the characters in this play which added to the interest of the audience of invalids.

Mrs. Louise C. Rosson of Saugerties also presented a variety program in which Mrs. Elsie Ackhart

Alice Hartshorn, Fillmore Terwilliger and Dorothy Ackhart appeared.

Mrs. C. O. Fromer of Albany avenue is in White Plains attending the White Plains Antique Show at the County Center.

Miss Van Slyke at Business Girls'

Miss Ellen Van Slyke will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Business Girls' Club to be held at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday, April 28, at 6 o'clock. Miss Van Slyke will tell of her recent travels and experiences in South Africa.

D.A.R. Members At Conference.

Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was well represented at its National Congress at Washington, D. C., last week. The following members were in attendance: Mrs. William R. Anderson, regent; Mrs. W. Dean Hays, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lester Moehring, delegate; Mrs. Foss K. Witter, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, and Mrs. H. F. Whitney, alternates. 3,734 delegates were in session, representing 142,000 members of the National Society in the United States and its possessions.

Mrs. Hays, who motored to Washington, was accompanied by Mrs. Witter and Mrs. Anderson. They made a pilgrimage to the grave of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, Va., and also to Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington. The delegates were in time to see the last of the first bloom of the Japanese cherry blossoms and the first bloom of the double ones.

These ladies will have very interesting reports of the Congress to give to Wiltwyck Chapter on May 20.

Mrs. Claude D. Warren of Detroit, Mich., who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Russell, of Brewster street, will leave on Tuesday for New York city, where she will sail on the Corinthia for Liverpool, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rising of New Gardens have been week-end guests of Miss Margaret Rising at her home in Saugerties.

Miss Marie Buchan of New York city was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson of Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Warren of Hurley returned Saturday from Pinehurst, N. C., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Warren at their winter residence. On their return trip, Mr. and Mrs. Warren visited Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harrison at their home in Virginia.

Henry P. Eighmey of East Chester street spent the week-end in Jenkintown, Pa., where he attended a dance sponsored by the Glee Club of Beaver College.

Wallace Buley, sophomore at Springfield College, has been elected editor of the "Massachusetts" college year-book for next year. He is the son of Mrs. Ines M. Buley, 124 Downs street, and is a graduate of Kingston High School. Since entering the college in the fall of 1935, Mr. Buley has entered into many activities. This year he was editor of the college directory and also editor of the international scholarship bulletin. He is a member of the social committee and the Maroon Key society. He is also director of the boy's club in West Springfield.

Court Santa Maria Receives New Members

Thirteen new members were accepted into Court Santa Maria, Catholic Daughters of America, at initiation rites conducted Sunday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Mrs. Lillian Dyer, district deputy was the initiating officer.

The ceremony was conducted in the presence of guests from Courts at Newburgh, Beacon, Catskill, Hudson, Marlborough, Middletown, Highland and Poughkeepsie in addition to a large number from the Kingston court.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Dyer and Miss Katherine Rosney, National Secretary, of New York city, addressed the gathering.

Berkshire Symphonic Festival

The first announcement of the program to be given at the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in August, by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has been made by Serge Koussevitzky. The celebrated conductor and his orchestra will be making their second annual appearance in the festival, which last summer they raised to national fame. An all-Berkshire and all-Wagner and an all-Brahms program have been planned by Koussevitzky as concert of special summer festival character.

Roosevelt Signs Soft Coal Measure

Washington, April 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the Guffey-Stinson bill, marking a second federal attempt to stabilize the soft coal industry—this time through price fixing alone.

The new law, which becomes effective June 1 for a four-year period, is a substitute for the original Guffey Coal Act, invalidated by the Supreme Court last year.

Stripped of the labor provisions to which the court objected, the new law empowers an enlarged national bituminous coal commission to prescribe minimum prices for coal, prohibits a code of fair trade practices for producers and free violators 15% per cent of the sale price of their coal at the mine.

The commission also may fix minimum prices in "foreign" markets from so-called "runaway" markets.

Windsor Wins Fight To Quash Book, Gets Apologetic Letter

London, April 26 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor won from his Austrian place of self-exile today a fight to have a British book about him taken out of circulation.

The publishers of "Coronation Commentary", it was disclosed, not only took the fast-selling volume from English bookshops but wrote the duke a note of apology.

That was upon the demand of the former monarch's attorney, who threatened legal action unless amends were made by today.

The action by the publishers came just on the eve of tomorrow's expiration of the six months' "probation period" necessary to make the divorce of Wallis Warfield Simpson final under English law.

Six months ago tomorrow, in the ancient town of Ipswich, the American fiancée of the Duke of Windsor obtained a preliminary divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson, and started the momentous events which were climaxed with Edward's abdication in December.

Freedom in Sight

Her attorneys, within the next two weeks, will take the necessary legal steps to make the decree final. Then Mrs. Simpson will be completely free to marry the duke—probably in June, after the coronation fanfare for King George VI has died down.

As for the book, "Coronation Commentary", it was learned today that Edward read passages of it at St. Wolfgang, Austria, only recently. He was angered, for some of the phrases accused him of "muddling, fuddling and meddling" while he was on the throne. Geoffrey Dennis wrote the book.

Immediately Edward instructed his London solicitor, A. G. Allen, to take vigorous action. Allen issued a 48-hour ultimatum to the publishers, William Heinemann, Ltd., threatening the book was withdrawn and an apology issued.

Today, the duke's representatives and the publishers were conferring prior to issuing a formal statement. The publishers at first said merely: "The book is out of print."

Some observers said the publishers were actuated in their withdrawal of the volume both by a desire to avoid rebalancing the abdication crisis just before the May 12 coronation and by the fact that English juries often hand down considerable damage judgments in such cases.

150 Enjoy Saturday Conference, Hear Msgr. M. J. Lavelle

Approximately 150 priests, Catholic Brothers and Sisters attended a conference for teachers Saturday in the chapel of St. Mary's Church, and enjoyed the banquet, with the Rev. John J. Stanley, V. F., as host, following it in St. Mary's school hall.

Chairman of the conference was the Right Rev. Monsignor Michael J. Lavelle of New York, and the leader of the discussion on "The Improvement of the Assignment" was the Rev. William R. Kelly, LL. D., superintendent of Catholic Schools of New York.

Those who took part in the discussion were Mother M. Patricia, of the Ursuline Nuns, St. Joseph's School, Middletown; Sister M. Madeleine, Sisters of Charity, Garr Institute, Goshen; Sister M. Angelita, Sisters of Christian Charity, St. Peter's School, Kingston; Sister Mary Ruth, Sisters of St. Dominic (Newburgh); St. Mary's School, Poughkeepsie, and Brother Bernard, Brothers of the Christian School, St. Patrick's School, Newburgh.

An address was made also by the Rev. John J. McCallen of Millbrook, who spoke on "The Religious Instruction of Rural Children who Attend Public Schools."

Roosevelt Names Board to Discuss Railroad Peace

Washington, April 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt intervened today to prevent a strike of 25,000 railroad and shipping employees in the New York Metropolitan area. He appointed an emergency board of three to try to work out a settlement.

Names of the board members will be announced later.

A walkout of the members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees had been scheduled for noon last Saturday, but was deferred until noon today in permit further mediation. This failed at meetings yesterday.

The Brotherhood is demanding a 20-cent an hour increase in wages. Acting under the Railway Labor Act, the President, in his pronouncement creating the board, said the dispute threatened "substantially to interrupt interstate commerce within the state of New York and other States in the eastern part of the country to a degree such as to deprive that section of the country of essential transportation service."

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Winkler, 42 Green street, a daughter, Suzanne Louise, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bennett of 11 1/2 Hill street, a son, Richard Allen, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. H. Wagner of 114 Wood street, a daughter, Elizabeth Anne, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Schmitt of West Hurley, a son, William Alfred, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Turk of 24 Cortez street, a daughter, Patricia.

George Schumann Burned Badly When His Bungalow Burns

George Schumann, for many years proprietor of Schumann's Hotel, at Edgelyville, was severely burned Saturday evening when fire destroyed the bungalow opposite the hotel. The cause of the fire is not definitely known, but it is presumed Mr. Schumann had gone to bed and in striking a match to light a cigar, set fire to the bed clothing.

The fire was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strubel, of Kingston, who were driving past the premises and saw the fire.

Mr. Schumann, who is well known throughout this section of the county, is 78 years old, and had been living in the small bungalow across the street from his hotel during the redecorating and spring housecleaning at the hotel where he occupied a room. The work of getting the hotel in shape for the summer business had been completed and was open for business, but Mr. Schumann had not yet moved back to his apartment in the hotel.

The aged man suffered very severe burns on one side of his body and was removed from the building and wrapped in blankets and taken to the Kingston Hospital by the emergency truck of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, which was summoned to the scene. First aid was given by Mrs. Fred Schumann until the emergency truck arrived.

At the hospital Mr. Schumann was placed under the care of Dr. George W. Ross, of Port Ewen. His burns are about the face, body and legs and his condition this morning was reported as fair.

The St. Remy fire department responded to a call and Chas. Murphy was also notified of the fire and Kingston a status was sent. Water was pumped from the old canal but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building. There was no insurance.

Fred Schumann was also burned about the hands while fighting the fire.

Scout Training School Tonight

The fourth session of the Scout Leaders Training School will take place this evening in the municipal Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The subjects for this evening's school include: First Class Standards; How to Program and Plan Troop Activities; The Merit Badge Program and What It Is For; Older Boy Activities; Fundamentals in Boys Club Leadership.

The training school is continuing to grow and each week has seen an increase in the enrollment; 27 men are now enrolled in the school and most of these are new men in Scout activity.

All men interested in this type of work are invited to be present and take part in the training activities.

Wright Home from Syracuse Gathering

Scout Executive W. A. Wright returned home Saturday afternoon from Syracuse, where he attended the annual conference of Region 2, Boy Scouts of America, which includes the states of New York and New Jersey. Two years ago the conference was held in Kingston.

Mr. Wright says that the conference, which was held in the Hotel Syracuse, had a registration of about 600 men interested in scouting and was the largest regional conference yet held.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the 4th Ward Republican Club will sponsor a dinner on Tuesday evening, April 27, at the "Brown Palace" on Delaware avenue. Music by Lester Mark's orchestra.

Card Party

There will be a card party held by the Newman Club, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, in St. Mary's Hall.

Wm. Held Quilting

The Ladies' Aid of the Flatbush Church will hold a quilting and sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Rita Thomas, instead of in the church hall, Wednesday.

There will be plenty of meetings days for those on relief rolls from now on. Congress has passed a bill permitting the federal surplus commodities corporation to spend $1,000,000 on such products for distribution through relief agencies.

Lyonsville Man Pays Fine of $50 for Drunken Driving

Forcing a number of cars to seek safety by driving off onto the shoulder of the road as he weaved from one side to the other of the highway, according to Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg and Winne, Simeon Roosa, 37, of Lyonsville, was arrested about 10 o'clock Saturday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was taken before Justice Clyde L. Baxter of Rosendale, who imposed a fine of $50 or 60 days in jail. Roosa was brought to the county jail, but later paid the fine and was released.

The deputy sheriff was returning from High Falls, where they had gone at the request of "Faithful Mary", former lieutenant of Father Divine, who has broken with the Harlem evangelist and is now claiming ownership of the Peace Restaurant property in that village. Deputy Clayton Vredenburg said that they had noticed Roosa's erratic driving and near the Bloomingburg turn-off they got out of their car and tried to stop him, but he drove between the two of them, nearly running them down. The officers followed Roosa and near the intersection of the Boulevard and the road to DeWitt Lake succeeded in bringing him to a stop and putting him under arrest.

Guild Meeting

The Young Women's Missionary Guild of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will meet this evening with Miss E. Saulpaugh of 53 Elmendorf street. The members are urged to bring the time calendars to the meeting.

STILL TIME TO ARRANGE BUDGETS

AT YEAR'S LOWEST PRICE

DON'T WAIT.. Monthly payments are smallest if you buy in April.

Only four days left to arrange budget contracts on Niagara Hudson Coke at the year's lowest price. Because of a further rise in the cost of the special coals used in the manufacture of coke, the price of coke on budget contracts will go up on May 1st. Be sure to come into our office before the first of the month if you want to take advantage of the present low price. And don't forget, monthly payments are smallest if you buy in April, because you have a longer time to pay. Save money on next winter's fuel by coming in at once. Don't wait until the last day.

At The Theatres

Today
Broadway: "Top of the Town". The new Universal, making a strong bid to become a big name in the picture industry, gathers together a group of promising new players in the musical attraction at the Broadway, sticks them in a night club atmosphere atop a high building, throws in some really fine songs, and dresses up the action with such capable veterans as Hugh Herbert, Mischa Auer and Gregory Ratoff to produce a tuneful, dazzling, somewhat crazy song and dance extravaganza that fairly prances its way through a flimsy plot to end in a burst of melody. Directed by Ralph Murphy, the show includes Doris Nolan, Gertrude Niesen, George Murphy, Ray Mayer, Ella Logan, Peggy Ryan, The Three Sisters, Jack Stuart and the California Collegians. The music is good and the comedy is especially enjoyable in this one.
Kingston: "Park Avenue Logger" and "The Great O'Malley." Courage, fortitude, excitement and romance are all to be found in "Park Avenue Logger" for it offers George O'Brien in another of his virile characterizations and the action is clean, masculine and rapid from start to ending. A story of the northwest lumber industry wherein a young man proves his mettle. Mr. O'Brien's cast includes Beatrice Roberts and David Howard directed this RKO-Radio picture. "The Great O'Malley" is the associate feature, a story of policemen and their troubles. Pat O'Brien and Humphrey Bogart are in the cast.
Tomorrow
Broadway: Same.
Kingston: "Week-End Millionaire". Our old friend Buddy Rogers returns to the screen via the British Isles in this English-made film that concerns a young man who has the opportunity to play the role of a millionaire over a week-end. The show is light, romantic and funny at times and Mr. Rogers is well supported by Mary Brian and a capable British cast. "Trouble in Morocco" is the associate picture, a melodrama of the desert country with the faithful Jack Holt in another of his he-man roles. This one is well filled with excitement, treachery and intrigue. Mae Clarke is featured in a large cast.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Trial and error

Milton Berle of comic renown makes his screen bow in a projected and difficult scene of "New Faces of 1937." He has a long speech to make, and Jerome Cowan and Patricia Wilder and Parkyakarkus also have speeches, all of them have to be perfectly timed.

It is Berle's first day on the set. This is the office of a penniless promotion enterprise. The "phone rings, and Berle, Cowan, and Patricia each seize an instrument and at one voice say "Hello." Parkyakarkus, lounging idly, says: "You need a bass."

There follows rapid-fire talk. The caller is a collection agency, and there is business of passing the buck. Wilder to Cowan to Berle. If it isn't fast it isn't funny.

By the fourth take the buck gets passed as far as Berle, who leaps in with this: "This hecklin's got it. Stop. Remember—but I didn't!"

And that's the cue for another trial, from the beginning. Parkyakarkus, meanwhile, has changed his line to "You need a baritone, so there'll be no mistaking the musical implication. Finally, after I think eight attempts, the scene is perfect.

But the camera has run out of film!

Cough Gets In Film

They were doing a taxicab sequence for "Make Way For Tomorrow." Victor Moore and Beulah Bondi were the passengers in one of those cutaway cabs the movies use to get the camera's eye inside the vehicle.

After several takes a perfect one was obtained—perfect with one exception. Director Leo McCarey's secretary had her father on the set as a guest. During the take, she met his embarrassment, the father coughed.

"It was a good take," mused McCarey. "I think we'll use it. Yes, we'll use it. It could have been the taxicab driver coughing, now couldn't it?"

Everybody agreed it could. And so—with elaborate mock ceremony—McCarey procured from the unintentional cougher a signed "release" for Paramount to have full and undisputed right to one cough as recorded on the sound track.

"Wonderful, these pictures!" was Victor Moore's comment.

A Tongue Twister

Watched Ann Southern and Richard Lane rehearse a hectic chase scene for "There Goes My Girl." Lane's the managing editor, Ann is a star reporter who wants to quit and marry Gene Raymond. Lane was had thugs kidnap Ann and she, after clawing and scratching her way clear, has come to Lane's office for vengeance.

"Round and round his desk they go, he arguing while fleeing. It is a very spirited scene, but the highlight—to me—came when Ann, simulating mounting rage, shrieked at Lane: "Contract! Contract! Is there anything in my contract that gives you the right of KIDNAPPING!"

Yes, they took that one over, too.

Girl Scouts

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

There will be a very important meeting of the Ulster County Girl Scout Council at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday evening, April 29, at eight o'clock. Every member is requested to be present. Miss Eunice Friel from the National Girl Scout Organization, will be present and plans will be started for a reorganization of the Girl Scouts in the Ulster county. Miss Friel will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel from April 26 until May 1. She will be glad to interview anyone interested in the Girl Scout Organization.

The Dorcas Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Scott Vining Tuesday evening. Mr. Vining and Mrs. Lester Ferguson will be the hostesses.
At the May 14 meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, the finance and budget committee will have a penny auction. There is a matter of some $11 which the association must earn in order to close the year with all obligations met. Each member is requested to donate an article to the auction. As much as is possible will be realized from the sale of each donation. Mrs. William Schwegel and Mrs. Adorn will act as auctioneers and Mrs. George Vincent, Jr., Mrs. Hambrook Van Leuven and Mrs. Edward Mains will see that all bids are collected.

Athletic Maidens Find 4 Ways To Cure Spring Fever

1—Softball is Genevieve Smithers' favorite for trouncing Old Man Spring Fever. With a glove on her hand she stretches in the sun until soon there's nothing left of her winter hangover.

2—Boxing is good, too, for what ails you in the spring, say Lovey Warren (left) and Eleanor Norris. Nothing like a good biff on the nose. Who said it's a sport for men only?

3—Riding horseback—like this—is only for extreme cases but Juanita Hobson says it works wonders. Posting with the hands gives you that gone with the wind feeling.

4—Tennis is the surest filly for a filly, according to many American gals. Take this backhand shot of our British cousin, T. K. Jarvis—most refreshing if you can do it.

ARE YOUR NERVES ON EDGE?

Molly's nerves are seething inside. She's almost reached the breaking point. To add to her troubles she finds that Wally, instead of sympathizing with her, seeks the company of placid Joan.

Of course Wally prefers Joan's serene manner to your hornet's nest restlessness, Molly. But remember, Joan's calmness, refreshing as it may be, is her only charm. Your alertness, sensitiveness, stimulating, colorful moods will, if you let them, make you more attractive than Joan could ever hope to be.

Think of women whose names go down in history—the doers and givers like "Good Queen Bess" and Florence Nightingale. They were neurotics. Many of our most charming movie actresses are in this class, too. But they learned to redirect their energies, to keep their nerves from wearing them down and making them unattractive. Their conquest of their nerves made them more vibrant and interesting than ever.

Nervous troubles are increasing in our swift-paced age. More and more people are afflicted with sleeplessness, worry, dizziness, nervous indigestion, irritability and other nervous conditions. But scientific knowledge of treating "nerves" has increased, too. Doctors find that the cure is not repression but release of nervous energies.

Our 40-page booklet, HOW TO AVOID AND OVERCOME NERVOUS TROUBLES, tells how to release your nervous energies in the right direction. It's written by a famous physician-psychologist who understands your nervous problems.

Send 15c for our booklet, HOW TO AVOID AND OVERCOME NERVOUS TROUBLES, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

CLINTONDALE

Clintondale, April 26—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Thompson and daughters of Clintondale and Mrs. George Woods of Gardiner were callers in Walkill on Sunday afternoon.

Ransel J. Wager of Modena was a caller in town on Tuesday evening.

Delegates from the Clintondale Fire Department attended the regular monthly meeting of the volunteer fire department of Ulster county, which was held in Kingston on Tuesday evening when the Hon. Cleon Murray was the principal speaker of the evening. They were guests of the Cordis Hose Company.

Invitations have been issued for the Modena Firemen's Dance which will be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, May 7. Maisenhelder's music will be there.

The Rev. Philip Solbjor, pastor of the Clintondale Methodist Church, has been returned to his charge for another year following the annual conference held in Grace Church in New York city last week. The local congregation is also glad to welcome Dr. Weyant, district superintendent, back.

Mrs. Anna Brown has returned to her home after spending the winter in Florida.

The Ladies Circle of the Clintondale Friends Church, has set the date of July 29 for their annual clam-bake which will be held in the Grange Hall.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Clintondale Methodist Church served a very delicious supper in the church parlors on Friday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. They also sold a number of cooked foods in conjunction with the supper. In charge of the affair were Mrs. George Alhusen, Mrs. Mildred Shay, Mrs. Reuben Deyo, Mrs. Charles Thorne, Mrs. Philip Baker, Mrs. William York, Mrs. Graham Gerald and Mrs. William Barrett. A large number attended this splendid supper.

The New York League of Business and Professional Women recently awarded scrolls to 20 men, including James L. Kilpatrick, president of the New York Telephone Company, for their leadership in making a better world for better business women.

Embroidered flowers that promise to be the "life" of your frock are these that you'll want for immediate stitching. They're fun! They're easy to do! They're entirely in lazy-daisy and single stitch; the pretty floral border is a grand finish for necklines, sleeves, or belt. Flower clusters, day in garden colors of wood or silk floss, may adorn a blouse, or book holder, and skirt of any desired frock. In pattern 5115 you will find a transfer pattern of a motif 3 x 3 1/2 inches, one and one reverse motif 6 1/2 x 6 1/2 inches; two and two reverse motifs 2 1/2 x 2 1/2 inches and two strips of border 2 x 1 1/2 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 14 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Art Dept., 253 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

RE: GOLDBERG'S VISION

WOODSTOCK SUNDAY

Woodstock, April 26—The father of the nationally syndicated strip, "Boo McNutt," Rebe Goldberg, spent the weekend in Woodstock making arrangements for his son to study at the Woodstock school of painting. Mr. Goldberg has been concerned on various occasions since 1905, and is at present working on a new cartoon strip which will be syndicated throughout the country. Mrs. Goldberg and a young or son plan to spend the summer in Hollywood, Calif., where the boy will study photography. Mr. Goldberg hopes to find time to spend some of his summer here in Woodstock.

Ladies Reports Good Work

Woodstock, April 26—The work period assigned by Jackson Smith, former superintendent of the WPA art project, came to a close last week and Mr. Smith announced that all of the work turned in was good. When asked for news of the project he stated "When everything is going good there is no news."

BLOODY RIOT BEGINS WHEN PICKETS RUSH SPINACH TRUCK

This truckload of spinach bound for a cannery at Stockton, Calif., started a bloody clash which resulted in injuries to 70 persons, including women as pickets rushed the truck. The injured were taken to hospitals while others were forced away with tear gas.

Floods Hit 3 States Drive Residents From Homes Today

By The Associated Press
Unabating rains swelled important rivers today and drove residents of lowlands from their homes in Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia.
The Ohio climbed toward the 25-foot flood stage. Its tributaries, the Allegheny and Monongahela, which meet it at Pittsburgh, were at their highest since January. Some railroad tracks were in danger and merchants in the business district feared for cellar stocks.
The Potomac rose to six feet above flood stage. Merchants of the low-lying business section of Cumberland, Md., were taking cellar goods to upper floors. Water stood in the downtown streets, but was not high enough seriously to impede traffic.
The rain sent the Conemaugh and Stony Creek Rivers to 17 feet, three inches and alarmed residents of Johnstown, Pa., scene of two disastrous floods in a half century, began vacating their homes. Water rolled into the low streets and was edging toward the downtown section.
The weather bureau estimated a river stage of 35 feet would be reached at Pittsburgh tomorrow. This would be only 11 feet under the stage of the St. Patrick's Day flood which cost Pennsylvania $200,000,000 in damage.
In West Virginia the Monongahela was rising at the rate of a foot an hour. Railroad tracks of Somerset county, Pennsylvania, were washed out. Several towns near Pittsburgh were expected to have their streets filled during the day if the rise continued.
Roads around Leonardtown, Md., were blocked by water and one farmer was reported marooned on a flood-made island.

Free Diphtheria Clinic on Tuesday

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, has arranged to hold another in the series of free diphtheria prevention clinics on Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock at the rooms of the Board of Health in the city hall. All parents who desire to have their children immunized from the disease are urged to bring them to the clinic at that time. When desired the child will also be vaccinated against smallpox.

War Admiral Wins

New York, April 26 (AP)—Having established himself as an outstanding Kentucky Derby threat, Samuel Riddle's War Admiral departed today for the scene of America's most famous horse race as the second choice in the future books. Already the rated high off his two-year old form, the trim brown son of Man O' War scored a calloping victory Saturday in the mile and a sixteenth of the Chesapeake stakes at Havre De Grace.

"Party" Suicide Called Coincidence

New York, April 26 (AP)—The simple label of "coincidence" was placed by police today upon the suicide of a 25-year-old actress and the gathering of about 100 party-bound "mystery guests" in the lobby of her Park avenue apartment house while she was inhaling gas.
The actress was Mrs. Helen Kim Mont, one-month bride of James Mont, fashionable interior decorator. Police closed the case, which at first appeared to have elements of a mystery thriller, with assertion that the phantom party and the suicide were unconnected.
The party guests assembled in the lobby as the result of a chain-letter hoax perpetrated by bored Park avenue funsters, police indicated. The invitations were sent out merely naming the Park avenue address, and not Mrs. Mont's apartment, and no "guests" were found who knew Mrs. Mont.
The actress herself was unaware of the crowd in the lobby, police said, and it was only coincidence she took her life as they gathered, wondering when the festivities would begin.
Police said Mrs. Mont left a suicide note, contents of which they did not reveal.

"Bird Man" Dies As 'Chutes Fail

Vincennes, France, April 26 (AP)—A twisting plunge to earth before 30,000 watchers ended the eight-year parachute-jumping career of Clem Sohn, the "bird man," yesterday.
The 26-year-old American, whose home was in Lansing, Mich., plummeted to instant death, jerking vainly at an auxiliary parachute after he jumped from an airplane at 6,000 feet yesterday in an exhibition of his canvas gliding wings.
His parachute, loosened at 1,000 feet, streaked out above him but failed to open.
Sohn ripped at his auxiliary parachute on his chest. It fluttered out—but did not catch the air.

Soft Ball Meeting At "Y" Wednesday

Last week a preliminary meeting of those interested in the formation of another industrial as well as an open soft ball league in Kingston this summer was held, and Wednesday evening another meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of completing the organization of the two proposed leagues. Any team interested in becoming a member of either the industrial or the open leagues must have a representative present at the meeting Wednesday evening.

Says Parked Car Was Cause of Crash That Injured Three

Three persons in a car driven by Joseph Wilson Lee of Kerhonkson were injured when the Lee car crashed into the rear of a car driven by Carrie M. Barnhart of Stone Ridge about eight o'clock Saturday night. They were Arthur Lee 3 who was treated by Dr. Edward F. Shea of Stone Ridge, and Anna Storms 17, and Kathryn Storms 15, who were treated by Dr. Rachel G. Halloway of Kerhonkson. The injuries were said to be not serious.
The accident happened on Route 209, between the Marbletown Cemetery and the turn-off to the Cottageville road. Deputy Sheriff McCullough was told that the accident occurred when the Barnhart car was temporarily stopped to avoid hitting the car of John Marshall of High Falls, which had been halted in order to change a tire. All of the cars involved were headed toward Kingston.

Several Traffic Cases in Court

Louis Roehl, 37, of 29 East Strand, was arrested Saturday evening by Officer Harman, who charged Roehl with operating an automobile on Broadway while intoxicated. Roehl was released on $100 bail for his appearance before Judge Callahan in police court this morning at which time he stated he desired to retain the services of a lawyer, and the hearing was set down for April 29, and bail bond continued.

Two arrests were made on charges of auto drivers failing to observe full stop signs. William Duckman, of 59 Hooker street had his hearing adjourned until later, and Albert R. Chambers, of the Maple Lane Farm, received a suspended sentence.
Sam R. Cascio, Jr., of New Paltz, arrested on a charge of double parking on Wall street, gave bail for appearance here on April 28.
John Bordenstein, of Bloomington, was fined $2 for driving a car with four adults in the front seat, which is a state law violation.
Paul Favata, of Newburgh, was arrested on a charge of driving a car with the tail light not lit, and also with not having his operator's license with him or the certificate of registration for the car he was driving. He gave bail for his appearance later.

Fined For Public Intoxication
Richard Wilbur, 27, of Lake Hill, and John Howland, 17, of Shady, were arrested at West Hurley Sunday by Trooper Raymond Dunn and brought to the county jail. Later arraignment was had before Justice Charles R. Tiller, who imposed a fine on a charge of public intoxication.

Game Postponed.
St. Louis, April 26 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals-Pittsburgh Pirates game scheduled for this afternoon was postponed today because of cold, threatening weather.

'The Blond Dynamo' Final Report at Speaks to Boys Here Wednesday at KHS

Kingston participating in National Boys' Week and Department of Recreation brings Peter Sanstol to Speak to Boys in Meeting in High School Auditorium.
Throughout the nation this week has been set aside as "Boys' Week" and Kingston's part in the celebrating of the week will be a big open meeting for boys in the auditorium of the Kingston High School on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The speaker of the afternoon is Peter Sanstol, known in the world of sports as "The Blond Dynamo."
Mr. Sanstol's visit here has been arranged through the city department of recreation with the cooperation of Frederick Snyder. Boys in the seventh and eighth grades of grammar school as well as all high school boys are urged to attend the meeting and hear Mr. Sanstol. There is no admission charge and the meeting is open to the older boys of the grammar schools as well as the high school.

Boys' Week is from April 24 to May 1, and is being celebrated throughout the country. The idea was originated in 1920 by the Rotary Club of New York city, and in a few years spread to all parts of the world. It is in keeping with the spirit of the week that this big open meeting for boys has been arranged here.

Pete Sanstol of Oslo, Norway, has closed a long bantamweight ring career with the ready applause of sports writers in all parts of the world. During his flashing career in the ring he was described as "The Blond Dynamo," the fighting Norwegian. Sanstol reached great heights of popularity in his own native Norway, in Germany, France, Canada, and on his few visits to this country he made a splendid impression.

Having retired from the ring with a big array of medals and awards he has now climbed into the business ring. He has just arrived in the United States from Oslo. He is a sports writer for the "Tidens Tegn," a Norwegian daily. In addition he is the personal representative of many men in sports including world famous auto racers. He is in close touch with many Norwegian officials and moves to promote commerce and the traffic between Norway and the United States.

From a humble background Sanstol has fought his way to the top. He speaks English readily and also German and French. He can produce commendable art and is adept with the violin. He illustrates what can be accomplished by training and control in celebration of Boys' Week he comes to Kingston through the auspices of Frederick Snyder. Mr. Snyder has known Sanstol for a number of years and was a visitor at the family home in Oslo. His talks will emphasize the topic "Fit or Counterfeit." Having travelled in so many lands and a central figure in many adventures, his talks will be most absorbing.

On the monthly menus of the Florida State Prison farm is 58,540 pounds of meat.

'The Blond Dynamo' Final Report at Speaks to Boys Here Wednesday at KHS

The Y. M. C. A. financial campaign closes tonight and there is every indication that the $10,127.17 will be reached.

The speaker this evening will be Archie E. Stearns, who is the New York State physical director of the Y. M. C. A. He is just returning from the state convention of the Y. M. C. A. Because of the campaign here, the local staff has been so busy that they could not attend.

The "Y" Couples Club is planning a campaign victory dance for April 30. This promises to be a good time for everyone, especially if the campaign goes over.

A group representing the "Y" Couples Club attended the "Y" Committee's party in Newburgh last week. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Schutt, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Goldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder.

The supper tonight will start promptly at 6 o'clock.

Newman Club Card Party

The Newman Club will hold its annual card party in St. Mary's School Hall on Tuesday evening at 8:30. William Bodenweber, president of the club, and his committee has been working very hard in order to make this affair the most outstanding event ever held by the organization. Mrs. John Larkin is chairman of the parent committee. Both bridge and pinocle will be played. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The present Texas legislature is the second in the last 14 years without a woman member.

OUT OF THE WILDERNESS OF DUST INTO A PROMISED LAND

North-eastern Colorado families headed toward the sunset at the first of the great dust storms sweeping in from the south. The dust was so thick that it was impossible to see more than a few feet ahead. The wind was so strong that it was impossible to stand.
